And Still I Rise Success Strategies For Reentry, Formerly Incarcerated And Justice System Impacted

Behavioral Health Department
Alameda County Health

SPONSORS

Dr. Stacy Thompson

California has one of the highest recidivism rates in the country due, in part, to the lack of resources available to those who are recently released from the carceral system. This interactive workshop will explore success strategies for reentry, formerly incarcerated and systems impacted people who are seeking education, vocational training and/ or life management skills.

If you have the desire to move beyond your past and create a solid future through the power of education and restorative justice, this workshop will support positive personal, educational, and professional outcomes.

Participants will learn how to:

- Formulate an action plan to a successful journey towards life goals.
- Identify the tools and resources needed to reach those goals.
- Build a comprehensive model of productivity and support in line with a viable life-plan, which can be duplicated and institutionalized.
