Trauma-Informed Summit:

Building a Sense of Safety in Unpredictable Environments

Alameda County Behavioral Health, in partnership with Trauma Transformed, is hosting a FREE one-day summit leveraging tools to embody and embed trauma-informed practices that establish safety in organizations.

Learn recommended practices for improving predictability and a sense of safety within your teams and agency infrastructure. You will have the opportunity to collaborate with peers across the county and leave with clear, actionable steps. Come solo or with members of your team!

This event is open to anyone working within Alameda County interested in advancing trauma-informed practices into their workplace. Space is limited, so register today!

*Light breakfast and lunch will be provided.
CEUs are available for this event.*
